

The Almonte Centennial Choir, led by Mrs Thora Pugh displayed their talents during the opening ceremonies Saturday. They will play in concert again Thursday.

A horse drawn landeau carrying honoured dignitaries crosses the bridge on the way to Almonte Town Hall to meet the Mayor and members of town council. Riding in the carriage are the Mexican Ambassador to Canada and his wife, Mr and Mrs Augustin Barrios Gomez who were in Almonte Saturday to officially open the Centennial celebrations. Also in the carriage are Marie and John Dunn. The gentlemen in top hats are the driver, Robert McLennaghan and carriage groom, Ken Camelon.

Janet Duncan and Reimke Vandermeer, both members of the Centennial Choir, cut pieces of the gigantic Centennial Cake being distributed to the crowd at the official opening ceremonies. There was a choice of chocolate or white cake, and both were delicious!

Touching down with no more difficulty than stepping off a chair, the skydiver shows his style in Gemmill Park Saturday. He was one of 12 jumpers taking part in the centennial festivities. Note the modern, highly manoeuvrable parachute.

Augustin Barrios Gomez, the ambassador of Mexico, spoke kindly Saturday of Almonte, the friendly, "amigo" town, during the opening ceremonies of Homecoming Week. Mr Barrios Gomez was wearing a suit loaned to him by Almonte councillor Paul Finner, after his own was soaked when the buggy he was riding in overturned in Gemmill Park.

One of the unusual exhibits at the Centennial Center on Saturday was Heirloom Discovery Day. Here Ron Stewart of Almonte does his part to identify an antique plate owned by Madelaine Molt.

The 16-piece orchestra played songs from different eras at the Centennial Grand Ball Saturday night. The band was called the Almonte Centennial Orchestra.

Many people wore costumes to the Centennial Grand Ball on Saturday August 6, 1980—The Gazette, Almonte, Ontario—Page 3

The little boy was one of the clowns that roamed Gemmill Park Saturday during the centennial festivities.

There was something for everyone to celebrate at the Almonte centennial, and lots more to come