

The Almonte Gazette

Founded 1867

P.O. Box 130, Almonte, Ontario, K0A 1A0
Telephone 613-256-1311

Publisher — Donald F. Runge
Editor — Barbara Shenstone
Advertising — Donald K. Runge

SUBSCRIPTIONS

$8.00 (within 40 miles of Almonte)
$10.00 (elsewhere in Canada)
$17.00 (outside of Canada)

PUBLISHED WEDNESDAYS
Second Class Mail Registration No. 0444

Member of the Ontario Weekly Newspaper Assoc.
and the Canadian Community Newspaper Assoc.

The advertiser agrees that the publisher shall not be liable for damages arising out of errors or omissions in advertisements beyond the amount paid for the space actually occupied by the advertisement in which the error or omission appears, whether such error or omission is due to the negligence of the publisher or otherwise and there shall be no liability for non-payment of any advertisement beyond the amount paid for such advertisement.

Big splash

The least one can say is that it was another first for Almonte.

How many other communities can boast of the distinction of having dumped a foreign ambassador into the drink during an official function.

While it does not seem the friendliest way to greet a foreign guest, the efficient and cool headed way the entire incident was handled showed perhaps better than any other way, how Almonte can rise to the occasion in a crisis.

Everyone involved in the accident showed excellent sportsmanship. The ambassador and his wife picked themselves up and made their official appearance with good grace.

One hopes, once over the fright, they will be able to look back on the incident with humour.

Mr Robert McLennan, the driver of the landau, was the most seriously hurt of the passengers, when his back, which has given him trouble before, seized up again as a result of the accident.

Doctor Murphy, however, was quickly by his side, and the centennial organizers were quick to get other medical help.

Since the carriage turned upside down and dropped over a four-foot bank, it was lucky, as everyone involved, kept thinking all afternoon, that no one was very badly injured or even killed.

In keeping the large crowd (estimated at about 1500) occupied while the ceremonies were delayed, both the band and of the Governor-General's Footguard, and the Centennial choir did an excellent job.

In fact many people were probably not even aware of the accident, which happened just out of sight of most of the crowd.

Ironically, the organizers had earlier checked the buggy's route for hazards or difficulties that might not be safe.

No answer

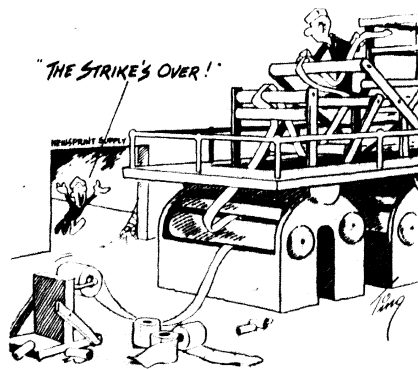

One of the most bizarre twists in the Iranian taking of American hostages is the way the Iranians continue to want to work and study in the United States, and moreover exercise all the rights a free and civilized nation can give.

This week we learn that 40 Iranian students, detained after a violent demonstration in Washington DC, are being force fed because they had gone on a hunger strike to protest their imprisonment.

Most peculiar is the advice given by Iranian president Beni Sadr, when the US Justice Department started proceedings to deport some of the Iranian protesters. Beni Sadr told them to fight with every possible effort, any deportation order from the United States.

At the same time radio broadcasts in Iran are accusing the Americans of falsely imprisoning the students and even of torturing them.

Meanwhile 50 Americans are held hostage for the tenth month in a country devoid of any of the most basic of democratic rights.

Page 4—The Gazette, Almonte, Ontario—August 6, 1980

Early shadows.

Photo by Susan Fisher

Another first in Almonte

The Editor

The celebration of your Centennial is an appropriate occasion to offer your town congratulations and success in future years, at the same time a sincere "Thanks" for what your town has meant to our town over the years. It is doubtful if any town anywhere has had such a good neighbor as we have had in the town of Almonte.

Two generations of children have been born in the Rossmore Memorial Hospital. This institution has also served us in illness and for surgery for 45 years and many citizens of our town spent their last days there.

It was always amazing to me who we were so dependent on Almonte for skilled tradesmen. My earliest recollection of there being such a place was when my father in 1904 took his family over to visit the Naamans.

Cars were primitive and roads were hilly and dusty and on shifting sands.

Being an ingenious founder man he removed the broken part, forced a ride with a farmer into Young's Foundry, had a new one cast, walked back, fitted it on the car, and we returned home late at night by the light of a coal oil lantern and I never did "get to see" Almonte.

I first skated and played hockey in the local covered rink built by Alan Gilmour and his sons. I know our curling rink was reconstructed by an Almonte contractor as well as the ammonies and the church we attend. Many parts of the buildings in the business I was associated with were constructed by Almonte contractors and workmen. A family of Almonte bricklayers were so skilled that you could almost see the building go up right before your eyes.

In business we worked with many people (both men and women) from Almonte. They were steady, skilled, and conscientious and easy to get along with, many remained here to be our leading citizens.

We all know of the contribution that natives of your town have made to the arts, finance, medicine and athletics as well as producing judges, lawyers, members of parliament and cabinet ministers. Our community has been served by two mayors from Almonte as well as the present mayor, reeve, councillors, and the town clerk.

In addition to this we have had or have — doctors, lawyers, nurses, storekeepers and businessmen and not forgetting the fact that many of the men of this community married girls from Almonte.

Despite the fact that once in the old Almonte hockey rink I was flattened many times, I survived to enjoy curling, badminton, and bowling and watched many movies in the old O'Brien Theatre, The National Arts Centre, Masses Hall, or the Palladium.

never gave me the thrill that watching the Prisoner of Zenda did when the hero swung by his neck by a rope while the piano player pounded out "Swing me in the Moonlight Tonight."

I've been to Woodbine, Garden City and Comaugh Park but it could not compare to little old Dos, Metcalfe seated in his silks streaking down the homestretch while the crowd yelled "Atta boy Dos."

Stanley "Followay", Jack Benny or Chip Wilson couldn't hold a candle to Sam Greenwood, who, after a curling match told his story about Roosevelt, Churchill and Kinschey on roller skates. He didn't need to imitate the Yorkshire accent, he was perfect.

There is always lots of action in the town of Almonte and you have many tests to your credit with your hospital and heritage park, long before we had anything like that, and it isn't every town in Canada that has had the distinction of dumping the Ambassador of a friendly country into a creek.

On the serious side, you have a beautiful town and long may you thrive and we wish you success. You have certainly made life more pleasant interesting as a neighbour, and contributed immensely to our way of life.

Yours sincerely,
Wm F Findlay,
Carlton Place

A prayer for the Centennial

by Rev Ed Smith

As we reach the midpoint in our centennial celebrations, I would suggest that it would be appropriate for us all to pray a prayer similar to the following to seek God's help so that in the days to come life in our beloved town of Almonte will prove to be for all of us more and more "Life Worth Living."

O Lord, we come to You, in the realization of our total dependence upon You, and in the confession of our failures to appreciate all that You have done for us, and of our carelessness to give You praise for all that You have provided for us, and of our unwillingness to always seek Your help to meet the problems we face.

Although we know that we have often failed You, O gracious God, yet we also know that we can come to You with our petitions concerning our beloved town, and that You will hear us and will honour our prayers, whether we are young or old, whether we are prominent or obscure, whether we are native born or new arrivals, whether we are of great importance in the life of our community or of little note.

We thank You for the many things we love in regard to Almonte: its beautiful old buildings, its famous sons, its lovely old churches, its quiet tree shaded streets, its stately old manor homes, its quaint lesser homes, its intriguing history, its recent improvements towards the care of the elderly and the handicapped, its self sacrificing service clubs, its Christian communities with their care for all types and conditions of mankind, its contributions in money and time

Letter

Signs "senselessly" torn down

Dear Sir:

In June of 1977, the Almonte Lions Club, as part of their support for Fairview Manor, sponsored their annual Monte Carlo night. Some of the proceeds from the event were utilized to purchase directional signs to Fairview Manor to assist visiting family members from out of town to locate the Home for the Aged in which their relatives resided.

These signs had been badly needed since the construction of the Home in 1977 as many residents had remarked that their relatives had been unable to find Fairview when attempting to visit. Since the installation of signs, many persons commented on how useful they were. In keeping with the Home's location, attaching the signs to the and effort to help the displaced from other lands.

We now rededicate ourselves in our allegiance to You and to our town, promising that we will seek Your will as we consider the future of our town and of us, its people, promising that we will strive to live as people of Your Kingdom, as well as loyal citizens of this town, promising that we will not allow to die the memory of our Godly forebears, promising that we will work together for the betterment of our life in this community.

With these our prayers, O Almighty God, we come to Your throne as we enter this second century of our town.

Our confidence is in You to enable us to make this next one hundred years even more glorious than the one hundred years now past. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord and our Saviour AMEN

I find it a very sad commentary on the mentality of the individuals involved that they find it necessary to amuse their intelligences (questionable at best in their existence) destroying or defacing a community support project which had been designed for the sole purpose of assisting the resident seniors in Fairview Manor and their families. It is particularly disturbing since the signs had been erected using funds for which the Lions Club had had to work so hard. I hope whoever is responsible for this senseless destruction may one day find him/herself in need of some kind of community support only to find that some irresponsible, thoughtless person has destroyed the service for which he/she is in need. In destroying the sign, I hope the gratification found by the person(s) involved is tremendously amusing as their stupidity and thoughtlessness will now cause inconvenience and discomfort to those for whom the signs had been so generously donated.

Fairview Manor

by Florence Watt

Three years have gone by,
Since that nice day in June
When I left my apartment
For a Fairview Manor room.

I have moved many times,
Was content with them all.
My landlords were fine,
Had no complaints at all.

So where I am now,
I feel quite at home.
I have all that I need,
And a room of my own.

We have the best of nurses,
Who give us good care,
And the doctors when needed,
Are very soon over here.

The cooks in the kitchen
Are kept quite busy too.
Cooking potatoes and vegetables,
And big pots of stew.

But oh, it's the breakfast,
That's the one I like most.
With bacon and cheese,
Bowls of porridge and toast.

Our room's are kept shiny
And our clothes always clean.
If we need any mending,
They can sew a fine seam.

We need never go hungry,
There's plenty to eat.
The girls are obliging
And quick on their feet.

The men in the workshop,
Are as busy as bees,
And are always willing
To old gals to please.

Our two young orderlies,
Are patient and kind.
Better men than Dave and Mike
Would be very hard to find.

The ladies in the office,
Are kind and helpful too,
And Mary and Gwen are busy
Do all they can do.

Our hairdresser, Connie,
Keeps our locks clean and neat.
And those who want perms
Say, she just can't be beat.

Our gardener keeps going,
Not a weed to be seen.
With the hose in his hand,
He keeps everything green.

Now last, but not least,
We employ so many.
There's Colin Eyle and Murray,
We just can't forget any.

My feelings you know,
Are poured out in this poem,
There is never a time
When one must feel alone.

Special

Copies of The Gazette's centennial issue are on sale again this week.

The issue contains stories, photographs, and drawings of Almonte over the last 100 years.

for the betterment of our life in this community.

With these our prayers, O Almighty God, we come to Your throne as we enter this second century of our town.

Our confidence is in You to enable us to make this next one hundred years even more glorious than the one hundred years now past.

Through Jesus Christ, our Lord and our Saviour AMEN

I find it a very sad commentary on the mentality of the individuals involved that they find it necessary to amuse their intelligences (questionable at best in their existence) destroying or defacing a community support project which had been designed for the sole purpose of assisting the resident seniors in Fairview Manor and their families. It is particularly disturbing since the signs had been erected using funds for which the Lions Club had had to work so hard. I hope whoever is responsible for this senseless destruction may one day find him/herself in need of some kind of community support only to find that some irresponsible, thoughtless person has destroyed the service for which he/she is in need. In destroying the sign, I hope the gratification found by the person(s) involved is tremendously amusing as their stupidity and thoughtlessness will now cause inconvenience and discomfort to those for whom the signs had been so generously donated.

Yours truly
Colin Eyle, Administrator,
Fairview Manor Home for the Aged