

Hand over those keys

The Almonte-Ramsay Fire Department became the proud owners of this $126,000 1981 Seagrave Aerial ladder truck purchased jointly by the Town of Almonte and Township of Ramsay. Seen here handing over the keys to fire chief Bill Lowry is Almonte deputy-reeve Terry

School Safety Week October 15-19

This year, National School Safety Week, October 15-19, 1990 is promoting railway safety. The Canada Safety Council is supporting Operation Lifesaver's 10th Anniversary anti-trespassing program "You are on the Wrong Track". This program informs people of the dangers of trespassing on railway property or playing on railway equipment.

As adults, we must ensure that young people are aware of rail/highway crossing hazards. Children, as they are particularly vulnerable, must be taught that railway tracks and railway property are very dangerous and are not places to play. Safe behaviors practised now will carry over into teen and adult years.

A railway safety booklet has been designed to provide teachers, parents and children with the opportunity to discuss railway safety. The activity sheets in the booklet can be reproduced and used either at school or at home.

National School Safety Week, sponsored by the Canada Safety Council and Provincial Safety Councils and Leagues, provides an opportunity to highlight the vital importance of safety education and stimulates students involvement in accident prevention activities not only during the campaign week, but throughout the year.

How to be a Local Hero

Imagine a Canada where people make giving an important part of their lives. Where they make time in their busy day to think about how much they can really give, in time and in money. Where they don't wait to be asked to help. Imagine the rewards of being one of those people. Be a Local Hero.

Lanark municipalities say "no" to child abuse

Three Lanark County municipalities have joined major cities across the country in a national program to focus public attention on the growing problem of child abuse.

The town of Almonte and the townships of Ramsay and North Burgess have passed resolutions designating October 1990 as Child Abuse Prevention Month. They will be part of a nation-wide effort initiated by the Independent Order of Foresters (IOF) to reduce the incidence of child abuse.

The IOF, one of the world's oldest and largest fraternal benefit societies, has joined with the National Advisory Board on Child Abuse and with local child welfare and protection groups to raise public awareness of the need for strong, committed action to stop child abuse.

Based on recent statistics, child protection groups estimate that at least one in four females and one in 10 males will be sexually abused at some time during their childhood. Using these statistics as a guideline, projections for Lanark County are 1,700 girls and 700 boys will be sexually abused in some way.

While a serious and growing problem, sexual abuse is only one way in which the well-being of our children is threatened. Emotional and physical abuse, as well as neglect, are also ominous clouds which hang over many children in our community. In its recently released "Report on Child Abuse in Lanark County", Family and Children's Services highlights several figures which are worrying.

1988 statistics for Lanark County show a 23 per cent increase in abuse investigations over 1987. In 1989 Smiths Falls showed a 43 per cent increase in investigations over a two-year period while Carleton Place investigations increased by 42 per cent.

Numbers for the county show that physical and sexual abuse continue to be the two main dangers for Lanark County children. Significant were the high number of physical assaults which occurred in 1988 in Carleton Place and Smiths Falls.

In its breakdown of abuse cases by age and gender, the study notes that while more females than males are being abused, in each age group studied, the numbers of abused males is significantly high. The report also comments that in Lanark County, sexual abuse appears to decrease as the child grows older, while physical assault figures increase.

In an effort to launch a coordinated approach to preventing and treating child abuse, county social agencies created the Lanark County Child Abuse Prevention Committee (CAPC) in 1983. Members of the committee represent a cross section of child welfare, education and social service groups including Family and Children's Services, Interval House, Big Brothers, both Boards of Education, Public Health and the Children's Services Coordinating Advisory Group.

CAPC is actively involved in heightening public awareness of child abuse in the county by making presentations to community groups, distributing information on child abuse from a variety of sources and working with librarians and educators in an effort to make readily available, helpful, reliable information on dealing with child abuse.

Within Lanark County, program is being developed for use in day nursery settings, designed to give pre-schoolers a positive feeling about themselves and their bodies. The program will focus on helping to make children feel secure enough to "say no" if a threatening situation occurs.

Don't blame us

We manage post offices in communities like yours - the backbone of postal service in this country. We understand the frustration you feel over the decline in service from Canada Post. You're not mistaken. Consider these facts:

- 800 post offices have been shut down, and the list is growing every week
- Saturday hours in the federally operated post offices are being reduced and the doors are being closed to the public during noon hour throughout the week
- management's alternative is to have more and more mail processed in variety stores

We think you deserve better.

Things can change if politicians know their jobs depend on it. Tell your Member of Parliament that the federally operated post office is a service you won't do without. They'll get the message.
