

TORONTO — Farm Credit Corporation (FCC) has announced a Scholarship Awards Program designed to extend the corporation's commitment to the Canadian 4-H Council by providing sixteen $1,000 scholarships to 4-H members, starting April 1, 1994.

"4-H is well-recognized as one of Canada's premier rural agricultural organizations and Farm Credit Corporation is already a proud sponsor of the national body," said James Hewitt, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of FCC. "This year, our Board of Directors approved an expanded role for FCC, recognizing the value of our young people in Canadian agriculture. As well, our new mandate calls for FCC to assist in strengthening rural Canada. We are pleased to provide our new 4-H scholarship program to assist future Canadian farmers and rural youth."

Robert Aumell, Vice-President of FCC's Ontario Region, made the announcement Nov. 12 on behalf of Chairman Hewitt at the Canadian 4-H Council's national conference in Toronto.

"The main purpose of our new scholarship program is to reaffirm our commitment to rural Canada and the agricultural community," he said. "It reflects our role as a corporate citizen as we embark on a new relationship with one of our country's key agricultural organizations."

To qualify for the education scholarships, 4-H members must write a 500 to 1,000-word essay on one of the following topics:

- The Importance of Agriculture to Canada
- Agriculture and the Environment
- Why Support Rural Canada?

In addition to financial assistance for post-secondary education, the awards program is designed to heighten youth awareness of agricultural issues and to encourage higher education goal-setting.

Applicants must be active 4-H members and have been registered members for or during the past two years. Scholarship winners will be selected based on their essay submission, which will demonstrate their knowledge of Canadian agricultural issues, and financial need.

The number and allocation of scholarships is based on FCC's business portfolio, client base and 4-H national membership. Total regional allocations are as follows:

- British Columbia 1
- Alberta 1
- Saskatchewan 3
- Manitoba 2
- Ontario 3
- Quebec 1
- Nova Scotia 1
- New Brunswick 1
- Prince Edward Island 1
- Newfoundland/Labrador 1

The scholarship program will be administered by the Canadian 4-H Council in conjunction with provincial 4-H Councils.

Lynn Attley took a step up in the ranks of the separate school board at its Dec. 7 meeting.

The Almonte-Pakenham-Ramsay representative was acclaimed the board's second vice-chairman.

She fills in for Joe Dionne, of Brockville, who moved into the position of first vice-chairman. Tom Barr, also of Brockville, serves his third term as chairman.

At the same meeting, Attley was appointed chairperson of the Education Committee.

Attley is entering the third year of her first term as a trustee.

The Ontario Community Newspaper Association (OCNA) has named 11 young people as its Junior Citizens of the Year.

Most recipients have either overcome the limitations of a health problem, done outstanding community service or taken part in a dramatic rescue.

They are David Clarke, 12, of Lambeth, Vanessa D'Souza, 17, of Etobicoke, Christina Dudman, 13, of Tiverton, Samantha Holmes, 16, of Mississauga, Colin Linton, 12, of Gloucester, Jennifer Long, 11, of Stoney Creek, Anita McElligott, 15, of Wallaceburg, Jeff Preston, 10, of Port Elgin, Greg Reilly, 17, of Downsview, Gordon Simpson, 9, of Mississauga and Dean Stoltz, 18, of Kitchener.

Lisa Giles of Blakeney was nominated by her neighbor Shelley McPhail and her children for being a "model teenager."
