Korea War veterans to honour all fallen comrades here on July 19

The primary objective of the United Nations formed in 1945 is the maintenance of international peace and security. The organization dedicated itself to the development of friendly relations among nations, based on equal rights and self-determination of peoples; to the achievement of international cooperation in the solving of international problems of an economic, cultural or humanitarian character, and to serving as a centre for harmonizing the actions of nations in attainment of these ends.

In September 1957, the total number of members was 82 and at the present time is above the 100 mark.

Following Victory in Europe and in the Pacific in 1945, and from the formation and organization date of the United Nations, disputes and situations have arisen throughout the world, which affected international peace and security.

Canada has been involved in the United Nations as an active participant from the beginning and has had representative troops in almost all the trouble spots in the world. Canadian military men and women have done far more than their share in the endeavour to uphold the United Nations objective of maintenance of international peace and security. Canada's earliest major role was in the hostilities, which followed the invasion by North Korea of The Republic of South Korea on June 25, 1950.

A reinforced infantry brigade known as the Special Force, together with naval forces, and a squadron of transport aircraft, was contributed by Canada as part of the United Nations contribution of a total of 16 countries, which provided actively engaged troops, in addition to five countries which provided actively engaged troops, in addition to five countries which provided medical aid.

During the period 1950 to the signing of a truce agreement on July 27, 1953, Canada suffered 516 fatal casualties. Of these casualties 378 are buried in Pusan Cemetery Korea, 16 have no known graves, 24 are buried in the British Commonwealth War Cemetery in Yokohama, Japan, 93 are buried throughout Canada, and five are missing and presumed drowned.

The Korean War is often called "Canada's Forgotten War" because for many years it was considered to be only a "Police Action". No matter how one may look at it, when soldiers are being shot at, wounded and killed, then an intelligent person would say "it is a war".

Eventually the Canadian government accepted the fact that it was indeed "war" and granted the production and award of suitable medals for those who served.

The towns of Almonte and Carleton Place and adjacent townships made a contribution of volunteers to the Canadian forces who served in Korea that was unique in that 52 from a population of approximately 5,500 for this area saw action in this conflict from 1950-53.

One of the projects of the Korea Veterans of Canada is to have cenotaphs and monuments across this country, inscribed with suitable reference to the War in Korea and the 516 Canadians who made the supreme sacrifice in this conflict.

A lot of progress has been made across Ontario. The communities of Perth, Westport, Athens, Westboro and Kingston, are a few in this area who have had their cenotaphs inscribed along with a dedication ceremony and parade where suitable.

Her Worship Mayor Dorothy Finner of Almonte, and His Worship Mayor Brian Costello of Carleton Place have shown a great deal of enthusiasm, along with the two local Legion branches 240 Almonte, and 192 Carleton Place, and have fully endorsed this project.

The two cenotaphs of Almonte and Carleton Place have been engraved with the words "Korea 1950-1953".

The Korea Veterans in conjunction with the towns of Almonte and Carleton Place will hold a rededication ceremony and parade on July 19, 1997.

The parade and dedication will commence in Almonte at 10 a.m. From the Almonte community centre and march to the cenotaph for the dedication ceremony at 11 a.m.

The ceremonies in Carleton Place will commence at 1 p.m. from the parking lot of Branch 192 the Royal Canadian Legion and proceed to the Carleton Place cenotaph for service there at 2 p.m.

Following the service at the cenotaph in Carleton Place the parade will march to the town hall for a plaque unveiling listing all persons from Carleton Place who served in Korea, from 1950 to 1953.

The Korea Veterans extend a warm invitation to the residents of the towns of Almonte, Carleton Place and surrounding municipalities to join them in this tribute to their fallen comrades of the Korean War.

Remember Korea war veterans — "world's first defenders against Communism".

Strutt, Doris E.

The family of the late Doris Strutt, who died in Almonte on June 20th, would like to express their heartfelt gratitude to all those who made her brief stay here a rich and rewarding one.

To Country Haven who welcomed her as though she were an old and valued friend, we are eternally grateful.

To Dr. Franz Ferraris who cared for her with gentle compassion, we owe gratitude that knows no bounds. Death with dignity is a priceless gift.

To the staff of Almonte General Hospital for treating Doris with the level of care which one would extend to their own family, we say thank you.

To Glenn Kerry and his staff who smoothed the way to create a very significant funeral for a unique lady, we say thank you for all the extra work involved. You made the day one to remember.

Almonte is a very special town, made all the more so by the exceptional folks who live and work here.

Thank you again
